Opposition Stops Proposal Jeopardizing Arbitration

A California Chamber of Commerce-opposed “job killer” bill that created uncertainty for businesses regarding the enforceability of arbitration agreements failed to pass the Assembly Judiciary Committee last week.

SB 491 (Evans; D-Santa Rosa) would have dramatically increased litigation costs by encouraging more class actions and potentially pushing more cases into the courts.

SB 491 was another attempt to undermine arbitration and was substantially broader than last year’s AB 1062 (Dickinson; D-Sacramento), which would have weakened the enforcement of arbitration agreements by limiting appeals. AB 1062 was voted down by the Senate.

Attempt to Circumvent Court

Businesses use arbitration agreements in a wide variety of contracts as a way to control litigation costs and preserve business resources for other important purposes, including paying workers.

SB 491 jeopardized the entire arbitration agreement by striking or invalidating one of the most substantive provisions: the class action waiver.

The U.S. Supreme Court held in AT&T Mobility LLC v. Concepcion, 131 S.Ct. 1740 (2011), that the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA) prohibits states from conditioning the enforceability of an arbitration agreement on the availability of classwide arbitration procedures, as such a requirement would be inconsistent with the intent of the FAA.

The court struck down California’s rule on the grounds that such a rule “interferes with arbitration” to an extent not tolerated by the FAA.

SB 491 would have run afoul of the court’s ruling because, while seeming to apply neutrally to all standardized contracts, it established a state rule invalidating a clause that can arise only in an arbitration setting. Based on the Supreme Court’s decision, it is almost certain that SB 491 would have been struck down as unlawful.

Court Burden

If SB 491 had gone into effect, there were two potential outcomes:

- the company is forced to go through class action arbitration as it cannot include a class action waiver in its arbitration agreements; or
- the company already has contracts that include class action waivers in its arbitration agreements and a court

Job Creator Bills Win Approval in Assembly Policy Committees

California Chamber of Commerce-supported job creator bills that advance the state’s environmental policies, help create regulatory certainty and improve workforce development won approval from Assembly policy committees before legislators began their summer recess.

Still alive and awaiting action by the Assembly Appropriations Committee when legislators return are:

● SB 1139 (Rubio; D-East Bakersfield), which promotes job creation by reducing the regulatory burdens for the permitting process of carbon capturing and storage projects.

● SB 1099 (Wright; D-Inglewood), which provides certainty for business by creating a predictable and easy-to-track implementation schedule for new regulations and provides language of new regulations online for easier access.

● SB 1402 (Lieu; D-Torrance), which helps improve alignment of the state’s workforce needs and education resources by reauthorizing the Economic and Workforce Development program within the California Community College System.

All three bills are consistent with the goals of the CalChamber 2012 Renew Agenda and will help position California for economic recovery.

Makeup Time Must Occur in Same Workweek as Work Hours Missed

Dale Louton
HR Adviser

Is there a form from the Labor Board called the "Flex Form" that allows employees to work overtime and roll it into a day in which they worked fewer than eight hours and be paid at their regular rate of pay? If there is such a form, where can I find it and the relevant labor law?

The State of California Labor Commissioner, commonly called the Labor Board, does not have such a form. However, makeup time is provided for in Section 3 of the Industrial Welfare Commission Wage Orders and in California Labor Code Section 513.

Makeup Exception

Makeup time work provides an exception to the daily overtime requirements of Section 510 of the Labor Code and Section 3 of the IWC Wage Orders (except for Wage Order 14-Agricultural Occupations).

This exception allows an employee to miss work for personal reasons and make it up by working overtime in the same week without receiving premium pay.

The makeup work exception requires:

- Written request by the employee to make up time that would be lost by the employee due to a personal obligation.
- Total hours worked in one day, including makeup hours, may not exceed 11 hours nor may the hours worked exceed 40 hours in the workweek. Hours lost and made up must be in the same workweek. Workweek is defined in the Wage Orders as a fixed and regularly recurring period of seven consecutive 24-hour periods—for example, Sunday through Saturday.

- The employer is prohibited from soliciting or encouraging employees to make a request for makeup hours, but informing employees of this right is permitted. The Wage Order is required to be posted where employees may easily read it. The employer has the right to deny makeup time.

Resources

A sample "Makeup Time Request" form is provided for your convenience in the forms section of HRCalifornia. There also is a "Makeup Time Checklist," which may be helpful to you.

Any approved Makeup Time Request form should be attached to the time records.

‘Job Killer’ Bill Inflating Litigation, Insurance Costs Awaits Assembly Action

A California Chamber of Commerce-opposed “job killer” bill that once finalized is expected to inflate litigation and insurance costs will be awaiting Assembly action when legislators return from their summer recess.

The Consumer Attorneys of California are sponsoring SB 1528 (Steinberg; D-Sacramento) in an attempt to overturn the recent and well-reasoned California Supreme Court case, Howell v. Hamilton Meats (2011) 52 Cal.4th 541).

The case addressed the question of whether a plaintiff could recover for past medical damages stated in a health care provider’s bill but never actually paid or owed by the plaintiff.

No Loss Incurred

The court stated: “We hold no such recovery is allowed, for the simple reason that the injured plaintiff did not suffer any economic loss in that amount.”

Long-standing principles of law, codified in California in 1873, provide the measure of damages to a person is the amount that will compensate for the detriment that was caused. California has more than 100 years in developing an eminently equitable tort system designed to compensate individuals harmed by another’s action. The point is to make the plaintiff whole of the injuries suffered, not to provide the plaintiff with a windfall.

However, overturning Howell and well-established law will provide a plaintiff with just that: a windfall. Such a change in the law will artificially inflate litigation costs, encourage the filing of more lawsuits, and dramatically increase the rates for automobile, workers’ compensation, and general liability insurance to the detriment of individuals and employers alike.

Rushed Amendments

The CalChamber and a coalition of employer associations oppose the policy of the bill and also the approach being used to make such a dramatic change in the law. Although the sponsor and the author of SB 1528 have directly stated their intent to overturn the Howell decision, the bill has yet to be amended with the final language.

With only a month left in the session once the Legislature returns in August, any final amendments made to the bill will leave little time for a thorough airing and debate of the proposed policy in committee or floor sessions. The coalition believes that avoiding these processes further undermines public trust in the process.

Key Vote

SB 1528 passed the Assembly Judiciary Committee on July 3, 6-4.

Ayes: Atkins (D-South Park/Golden Hill), Dickinson (D-Sacramento), Feuer (D-Los Angeles), B. Lowenthal (D-Long Beach), Monning (D-Carmel), Wiecekowski (D-Fremont).

Water Bond Vote Shifts to 2014

Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. this week signed legislation delaying the water bond to the 2014 ballot.

The California Chamber of Commerce supported AB 1422 (Perea;

D-Fresno), which moves the vital 2012 water bond to the 2014 ballot to provide a better opportunity for the bond measure to pass.

The water bond is a critical part of the 2009 legislative package on water.

The bond will fund investments in water supply reliability, groundwater quality, Delta sustainability, recycling and conservation, storage (to provide water for the coequal goals of restoring the Delta ecosystem and creating a more reliable water supply for California), and watersheds.

Although voters agree that investments in water infrastructure and environmental restoration enhancements are needed, 2012 is not a year to pass a water bond, in part because of the current state of the economy.

The coalition supporting delaying the water bond included associations representing growers, builders, water agencies and municipal utilities.

Governor Signs Legislation Impeding Foreclosure Process

'Homeowners Bill of Rights' May Hurt California's Recovery

California Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. signed two bills on July 11 that could discourage investment in California's housing market and make capital more expensive for consumers.

Procedural Traps

California Chamber of Commerce-opposed AB 278 (Eng; D-Monterey Park) and SB 900 (Leno; D-San Francisco) create procedural traps to impede the foreclosure process and delay lenders' ability to recover collateral legitimately in foreclosure. The bills establish a private right of action that could result in costly litigation.

Labeled the "Homeowners Bill of Rights" by sponsor Attorney General Kamala Harris, the bills are likely to move the state closer to the type of lengthy judicial foreclosure process followed in places like Florida and New Jersey.

Despite amendments to the original versions of the bills, the bills the Governor signed could allow borrowers in default on their mortgages to have multiple opportunities to apply for a loan modification in order to forestall legitimate foreclosures.

Articles Cite Issues

Recent articles in The Sacramento Bee and The Orange County Register point out many of the troubling issues these bills may create for Californians, including increased costs for borrowers and making it harder for distressed properties to work their way out of the system.

Bee political columnist Dan Walters quoted a blog by former Deutsche Bank economist Anthony Sanders: "The California foreclosure laws are misguided and damaging. . . The more the federal and state governments regulate mortgage lending, the less loans will be originated and only to the wealthiest households..."

Writing in the Register, Steven Greenhut, vice president of journalism at the Franklin Center for Government and Public Integrity, commented, "The real key to reform is letting the market sort itself out, not creating a vast expansion of damages that attorneys representing homeowners can seek."

Greenhut concluded: "...the only beneficiaries from the new Homeowner Bill of Rights will be private attorneys who gain a new target. These laws aren't about fixing the mortgage crisis. They are about special interests using government to help them get their piece of the action before the crisis goes away."

Economic Analysis

A recent economic analysis of the bills (see June 29 Alert) concluded that the vast majority of California homeowners may not be helped by the bills.

The study found that prolonging the foreclosure process may make it more costly for loan servicers to do business in California while helping only a tiny fraction of homeowners who are behind on payments. In addition, the study concluded that the bills may slow the housing recovery, ultimately reduce home values, and diminish the future availability of credit for California homebuyers.

The bills will go into effect January 1, 2013.

‘Job Killers’ Increasing Energy Costs Remain Alive for Consideration in August

Two California Chamber of Commerce-opposed “job killer” bills that increase energy costs, including fuel prices on consumers and businesses, passed their respective Senate and Assembly policy committees last week.

AB 1532 (J. A. Pérez; D-Los Angeles) and SB 1572 (Pavley; D-Agoura Hills) allocate funds from an illegal tax to various programs that are not necessary to cost-effectively implement the market-based trading mechanism under AB 32, the 2006 climate change law.

The bills will now head to the Senate and Assembly Appropriations committees.

A third bill, AB 2404 (Fuentes; D-Los Angeles), which is identical to the bills above, was held on the Assembly Appropriations Suspense File on May 25.

Lacks Authority

In opposing the bills, the CalChamber has pointed out that the California Air Resources Board (ARB) lacks authority and has been unable to justify the need to raise billions of dollars in revenue for the purposes anticipated in the bills.

ARB’s plan to impose a “cap-and-tax” will hurt jobs, and increase costs to the state and consumers. AB 32 was not intended to be a revenue source. If the state moves forward with a billion-dollar auction, the impacts on the state’s economy would be devastating.

Entities subject to the illegal tax include manufacturers, public agencies, universities, refineries, food processors and others. The impact on these entities will be severe and on top of the higher fuel and energy costs due to other climate change regulations.

Not only is an auction unnecessary for a successful cap-and-trade program, but the planned collection and distribution of auction revenues raises legal uncertainties.

Job Creator Bills Win Approval in Assembly Policy Committees

SB 1139: Establishes Framework

SB 1139 encourages job growth by creating regulatory certainty for Carbon Capture and Storage (CCS) projects.

In addition, the bill requires the California Air Resources Board to establish methodologies that would recognize these projects as important compliance instruments under AB 32, thereby providing further incentive for economic investment in this safe and proven method of capture and storage.

California is aggressively working to meet its ambitious environmental goals set forth by AB 32, The California Global Warming Solutions Act of 2006.

SB 1139 helps realize these goals by recognizing the important role that CCS projects play in achieving overall greenhouse gas emission reductions. Establishing a regulatory framework for the planning, construction, and operation of CCS projects will enable several projects to move forward that have been stalled due to existing regulatory uncertainties that were identified by the California Energy Commission and the Public Utilities Commission. Removing the gaps in the permitting process sends the confidence signal necessary to spur investment in CCS projects.

SB 1099: Regulatory Certainty

SB 1099 provides that all regulations must go into effect quarterly on January 1, April 1, July 1 or October 1, while still allowing for the adoption of emergency regulations when necessary.

The bill also requires the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to make available on its website a list of regulations awaiting implementation. State agencies must post on their website each regulation filed with the Secretary of State and provide OAL with electronic links to those regulations.

Each year, state agencies draft and implement numerous regulations that go into effect 30 days after being filed with the Office of the Secretary of State. Keeping track of these regulations throughout the year presents a difficult challenge for California businesses, especially small businesses that employ small staffs and have limited resources.

The current regulatory process often results in businesses being out of compliance and administrative penalties being levied.

SB 1099 addresses this issue by creating a single, reliable source for businesses to learn about any pending regulations.

SB 1402: Workforce Needs

SB 1402 reworks the Economic and Workforce Development program to help it better meet its objectives in light of significant funding cuts in recent years.

Over the last five years, funding for the program has fallen by more than 40%, making it harder for program managers to meet market needs and coordinate with the various entities working toward the same mission.

SB 1402 establishes a revised program to operate until January 1, 2018. The revisions include making the program more accountable by strengthening the evaluation framework for grants and programs; and encouraging better integration and communication with career technical education programs.

Long-term and short-term programs to be funded include advanced transportation, biotechnology, environmental technologies, health care delivery and international trade.

Reauthorizing the redesigned program will help ensure that students continue to have access to a program targeted toward employable career paths, and that employers have access to a growing pool of qualified workers trained in the subjects in highest demand.

Key Votes

● SB 1139 unanimously passed the Assembly Natural Resources Committee on July 2, 8-0.

Ayes: Brownley (D-Santa Monica), Chesbro (D-North Coast), Dickinson (D-Sacramento), Grove (R-Bakersfield), Halderman (R-Fresno), Huffman (D-San Rafael), Knight (R-Antelope Valley), Monning (D-Carmel).

● SB 1099 passed the Assembly Business, Professions and Consumer Protection Committee on a unanimous vote of 9-0 on June 19.

Ayes: Allen (D-Santa Rosa), B. Berryhill (R-Ceres), Butler (D-Los Angeles), Eng (D-Monterey Park), Hagman (R-Chino Hills), Hayashi (D-Hayward), Hill (D-San Mateo), Ma (D-San Francisco), Smyth (R-Santa Clarita).

● SB 1402 passed two policy committees on July 3 with no opposition.

The 6-0 vote in the Assembly Jobs, Economic Development and the Economy Committee was:

Ayes: Beall (D-San Jose), Block (D-San Diego), Grove (R-Bakersfield), Hueso (D-San Diego), Morrell (R-Rancho Cucamonga), V. M. Pérez (D-Coachella).

The 8-0 vote in the Assembly Higher Education Committee was:

CalChamber Status Update Report on Major Legislation for Business

The following list summarizes top priority bills for the California Chamber of Commerce and their status as of July 6, when the Legislature began its summer recess, plus updates on bills signed by the Governor before Alert went to print.

Within each subject area, the list presents bills in order of priority with the highest priorities at the top.

The CalChamber will publish a second status report in September, showing the status of priority legislation when the Legislature begins its final recess on August 31.

September 30 is the last day for the Governor to sign or veto bills passed by the Legislature on or before August 31. The CalChamber will publish its final status report, showing the ultimate fate of priority bills sent to the Governor this year, in October.

Bills signed by the Governor will become law on January 1, 2013. Urgency measures went into effect immediately upon being signed.

Each fall, the CalChamber also publishes a record of legislators' votes on key bills affecting the California business climate. Generally, the bills selected for the vote record have appeared in one of the status reports. This year's vote record is scheduled to be published on October 26.

Federal bills are marked with an *.

Status of bills as of July 6, 2012, when the Legislature began its summer recess. Dates listed are the date the bill was assigned to a committee, the latest date of committee action, the next hearing date or when the bill reached the floor, unless action is stated.
