Connect and Discover Indo-Pacific Business Opportunities

The Governments of the United States of America and Japan welcome senior government officials, industry executives and other stakeholders to the 5th Indo-Pacific Business Forum. The event in Tokyo, Japan will be complemented by a robust virtual program for participants in the United States and throughout the Indo-Pacific region. Online features include networking with other attendees, engaging with government and industry organizations in the virtual exhibit hall, and accessing plenary sessions with VIP government officials and private sector executives.

BACKGROUND

The Indo-Pacific Business Forum (IPBF) is the premier public-private U.S. government event to promote trade, investment, and economic cooperation between the United States and its partners throughout the Indo-Pacific region. Hosted and sponsored by the U.S. Trade and Development Agency, in partnership with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Japan and the U.S. Department of State and in cooperation with Japan's Ministry of Economy, Trade and Industry, this year's IPBF will build upon the success of the previous four forums that have brought together more than 7,000 participants from 67 countries, including senior U.S. government leadership and public and private sector partners.

The event connects U.S. government, industry and international partners to share knowledge, identify export opportunities in emerging Indo-Pacific economies, and help partners find infrastructure solutions for development challenges. The agenda focuses on the latest developments impacting key sectors, as well as discussion of policy recommendations and new opportunities for expanded public-private partnerships. The event is also a chance to learn more about U.S. Government tools and programs to support U.S. projects in the region.
